

Write a well organized composition explaining the motion of an object in a circular orbit around the Earth. In your answer, describe the role of gravitational force in maintaining orbital motion, explain why the object does not fall directly onto the Earth, and discuss how the speed of the object depends on the radius of the orbit. Finally, mention some practical applications of objects moving in orbits in every daily life.